

Pearson's Places and Things

Volume 2 Issue 1

(ISSUE 2)

January 1998

This is the second edition of Pearson's Places and Things, in the first issue we learned a few things both in the printed page and in using the email system to send it. The biggest problem I found was that just because I can send it doesn't mean that you will receive it or be able to read it. Hopefully this time a lot of these type of problems will be fixed.

Another problem we are facing is funding the News Letter. If my father (Elton Sr.) and myself are going to continue publishing Pearson's Places and Things we are going to ask for a $5.00 subscription fee per year. This will barely cover the cost of production, supplies

A Short History of the Pearson Family in America, (Part 2)

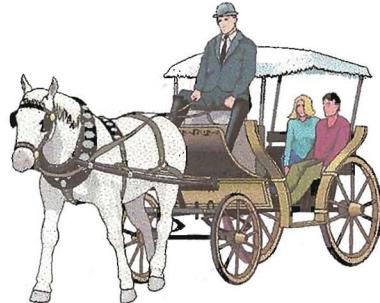

Edward and Sarah's seven children were; Martha I 1673 (died in infancy), Deborah 1675, Lawrence 1677 (named after his grandfather), Sarah 1680, Enoch 1683, Phebe 1685 all born in England, and finally Martha II 1688 (born in America). It was quite usual to name another child by the same name if the first child died young.

Lime Burning Kiln

Edward died on June 3rd 1697 at the age of 46. Edward's wife Sarah, married again to a Martin Wildman on November 2nd 1698 (an old friend of the family). The older children having already married, the three youngest surviving children, Sarah of 1680, Enoch 1683, and Martha II 1688 went to Philadelphia, Pa. in 1699 to live with Thomas & Margaret Bye (family friends) who had just arrived from England. Sarah eventually married in 1704 to John Bye (Thomas Bye's son) of 1674. Martha II also eventually married John's brother, Nathaniel of 1677 in 1706.

Enoch evidently returned to Bucks Co., Pa. and lived in Solebury Twp., and joined the Falls Monthly Meeting. On November 25, 1712 he married Margaret Smith of 1691 at Middletown Monthly Meeting at the Falls Meeting House. He became the first person in Bucks County to have a Lime-Kiln or Lime-Burner for calcining limestone into a usable form of lime. This was a very pungent, smelly, operation and was at Lashaska Station in Bucks Co. He had twelve children; William 1713, Thomas

Enoch Pearson The Quaker

Story By:

Elton E. Pearson Sr.

Enoch Pearson Jr., was born at Falls Monthly Meeting in Bucks County, Pennsylvania on May 25th, 1718. Later on he was called "Enock" Pearson Sr. and spelled his first name with a "K" instead of an "H". He wasn't really born at the Falls Monthly Meeting, but was born under auspices of the Falls M.M. of Friends or "Quakers" as they were commonly called. The Society of Friends was a very strict religious society of believers organized about 1647 by George Fox of England. Enock's parents belonged to the friends Church. They were Enoch Pearson of 1683 and Margery Smith of 1691, both born in England but came to America with their parents about 1687. Also, "Enock" wasn't really born on May 25th but was born in the 3rd month of 1718. Most people would say he was born March 25, but in those days the year began two months later (about the beginning of Spring), so "Enock" was born in what is now May. So we shall say

1715, Mary 1717, Enoch 1718, Sarah 1719, Phebe 1720, Margaret 1722, Rachel 1724, Elizabeth 1726, (Possibly Benjamin 1727), John 1728, Samuel 1730 and Charles 1736. In May of 1730 Enoch became a Quaker preacher and traveled in Philadelphia Co., Montgomery Co., Chester Co., beside Bucks Co. While journeying to different Monthly Meetings and Quaker Meeting Houses, his sons had to operate his Lime-Kiln. His son Enoch Jr. of 1718 disliked the nasty smelling Lime-Kiln so much he decided to become a surveyor instead, but that in itself is another story.

he was born in May with the advent of May flowers.

Enock had older brothers and sisters. He also had younger brothers and sisters. (See previous story).

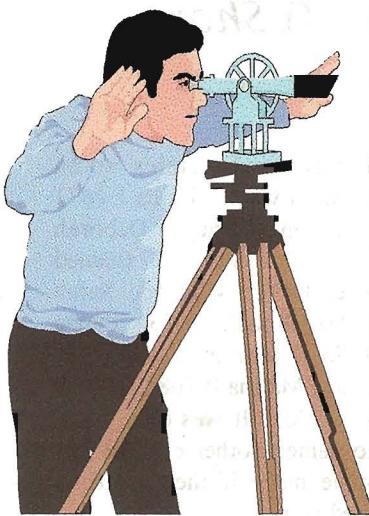

Enock's childhood was much like any other young "Quaker" in those days. He had to work hard helping with the farm work. Every Sunday was Lord's Day and all went to meeting by buggy. Women and girls sat on one side of the Meeting House, while men and boys sat on the other side. The first part of the worship was sat in quiet meditation with God.

Enock's father had the first Lime-Kiln or Lime-Burner in Bucks County. Enock disliked this smelly, pungent, nose burning kiln, almost hating it. He disliked it so much that when he heard there was a young fellow in Virginia that taught surveying, he decided he wanted to become a surveyor. So, Enock and one of his cousins, a John Watson, packed up their few possessions and set out for Winchester, Virginia. This was a long and hard journey of over 225 miles, no roads, some paths, and infested with Indians. They had to shoot game along the way for their food. They finally arrived and met the young fellow whose first name was George, that would be teaching them surveying.

They completed their course of instruction and with high marks they were offered a good job surveying a line to be the South boundary of Pennsylvania (or latitude $39^{\circ} - 43' - 17.6''$). Being new at it and not really sure of their abilities, they turned the job down. The job was then offered to the next two young men, and they took the job and the two became famous as surveyors of the famed "Mason-Dixon Line", or line between the North and the South over a hundred years later during the Civil War between the States. Otherwise it would have been called the "Pearson-Watson Line". (We have no proof that this part of the story is true).

Enock stayed on in Winchester and became good friends with his instructor, George. There was a man named Jonathan Jacocks who bought a plantation near Winchester in 1750 and was well known by George. Jonathan had a lovely daughter called "Tabitha", and George introduced Enock to her. They were smitten with love and in 1751, Enock and Tabitha married in the Friends Meeting House, which was about 6 miles north of Winchester, and was called the Hopewell Meeting. They lived at her father's homestead or plantation for a while. In January of 1756, George, who had become a Major in the Army and had moved away, came back to Winchester to talk with the County officials of Frederick Co. to rally a defense against the Indians. It is written in A HISTORY OF FREDERICK COUNTY, VIRGINIA. At the end of the meeting, Major George Washington adjourned to the home of Enock Pearson.

Because of the Indian hostilities, Enock and Tabitha and their growing family moved back to Solebury, Bucks County, PA. in late 1756. They raised nine children there and had a tenth one later in South Carolina. Their children were as follows: Mary 1753, Thomas Because our only concern is to publish information about the Pearson family (whatever branch) we are not in the business of giving out or selling the addresses we receive. We will keep these on a master list and consider it confidential.

When you are answering queries we will only give out your name and address to the other person if you specify that you want us to.

We are also asking that, if you have interesting stories about the Pearson Family that you forward them to us for inclusion in the news letter. Of course we can't guarantee that we will print it in the next issue only that we will try to print it. Please try to reasonably verify any

1754, Margaret 1756, Sarah 1759, William, 1761, Rachel 1763, Tabitha 1765, Elizabeth 1767, Hannah 1770, Isaac 1771, Enoch III 1775 who was born with some kind of infirmity.

In 1765 they joined the migration south of Quaker Friends and settled in the Sedalia section of Union County, SC and purchased a plantation of over 1000 acres. The war between England and America's Colonies became fierce in the 1770's and in 1776, 1779 and 1780 there were battles in Charleston, SC. Enock was in his late fifties (an old man already in those days), and besides was a Quaker pacifist who didn't believe in fighting, but he couldn't let his good friend George Washington down, who was now General George Washington so he joined the forces of Washington's men and stood in the defense of Charleston. He was wounded, and died from the rigors of the revolutionary War in 1780. This was nine years before his good friend became the first president of the new United States of America. Enock died at age of 62 and was buried in the Pearson Cemetery, Union County, SC. On land that was originally his. His son William of 1761 was a colorful character and will make a good story on his own.

He married Mary Clarey Beasley (of TN) in AL and is buried in Marengo County, AL. James and several brothers walked from NC south and James went to AL, a brother to MS and another to AR. Thanks for any help.

QUERIE # 20. I am looking for any information on David Pearson who married Mary Lacy Oct 27, 1785 in Amelia Co., Va. He served in the Revolutionary War. He enlisted in Chesterfield Co., Va. Again in Amelia Co., Va. And a 3rd time in Nottaway Co., Va. He then settled in Halifax Co., Va. At the age of 81 or 82, he filed for pension in Rutherford Co., TN. Any further information on this line would be greatly appreciated.

QUERIE # 21. I am researching Francis Pearson and descendants. He was on the 1850 Coosa Co. AL census, but died before 16 Oct 1851 when James Pearson was made Adm. of Estate of Francis Pearson. On 15 Dec 1851, Widow Elizabeth petitioned for dower and sale of real estate: Heirs were John Wilson in right of wife Lenora, David Lewis in right. of wife Susannah, Washington Hason in right wife Elizabeth, John C. L. Pearson (he and all above were non residents of Coosa County, AL) The following heirs were residents of Coosa County AL: William Pearson, John Marshall in right of wife Caroline, William Pembleton in rt. of wife Margaret, and James Pearson. Final settlement of the estate was 18 Dec 1854. Of the above children, I am most interested in William and Delilah Marshall Pearson. Their children were: Elizabeth (1838), Jasper (1840), Green (1842), Francis (1843), Henry (1844), Julia Ann (1847), James (1848), William (1849), Mary (1851), George Washington (1852), Sarah (1854), Malissa (1855), John (1859), and Delilah (1860). This family was in Coosa and Tallapoosa Counties in Alabama. William and Delilah's daughter Sarah had three known children, all of whom were supposedly half brothers and sister. The first child was Mary or "Mollie", my deceased husband's grandmother, born 24 Oct 1870 supposedly in Birmingham. Her father is listed on her death certificate as John Brown. However, Mollie went by the name Pearson. So far, I have been unable to find a marriage license for Sarah and John Brown. The second child, John Thomas Pearson, was born 5 Apr 1872. Father unknown. The third child, James Monroe Pearson, was born 14 Feb 1882. His father is listed as William Pearson and mother as Sarah Haywood. However, Sarah married A. F. Haywood Oct. 26, 1883. Sarah's sister Malissa also married A. F. Haywood on 23 Apr 1885. What happened to Sarah? Would love to connect with someone out there and share the material I have. Thanks.
